DETAILED ACTION

Examiner's Amendment

An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Brian Russell on May 3, 2006.

The application has been amended as follows:

- Amend the title as follows:
 - Replace the current title of with --System And Method To Stall Dispatch Of Gathered Store Operations In A Store Queue Using A Timer--
- Amend the specification as follows:
 - Paragraph 0001, Line 2: Insert --10/825,189-- before "(Docket No."
- Amend claim 1 as follows:

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-20 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the prior art of record fails to disclose the combination including the limitations of:

(Claim 1) "...and when a second processor-issued store operation gathers to the entry before said pre-established threshold for elapsed time is reached: holding off tagging said entry as eligible for dispatch; and restarting said timer to track elapsed time from a completion of said gather of the second processor-issued store operation.”

(Claim 7) “...and a plurality of timers and an associated timer logic, said plurality of timers being each assigned to an entry and utilized for tracking elapsed time since a last gather of a store operation to that entry...”

(Claim 15) “...a plurality of timers and an associated timer logic, said plurality of timers being each assigned to an entry and utilized for tracking elapsed time since a last gather of a store operation to that entry...”

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance.”

As dependent claims 2-6, 8-14, and 16-20 depend from an allowable base claim; they are at least allowable for the same reasons as noted above.

The following prior art is deemed most closely related to the instant application and is therefore made of record:

1. IBM Technical Disclosure Bulletin (Pekkala et al.) discloses a method for combining various store instructions to the same doubleword address into a single cache access. However, Pekkala neither anticipates nor renders obvious a plurality of timers and an associated timer logic, the plurality of timers being each assigned to an entry and utilized for tracking elapsed time since a last gather of a store operation to that entry.

2. U.S. Patent 5,894,569 (Arimilli et al.) discloses a method and system for back-end gathering of store instructions using a within a front-end queue and a back-end queue. In response to a series of determination steps, two store instructions are combined into one bus transfer. However, Arimilli-569 neither anticipates nor renders obvious activating a timer to track elapsed time from a completion of the gathering step.

3. U.S. Patent 5,940,611 (Arimilli et al.) discloses a method and system for front-end gathering of store instructions using a within a front-end queue and a back-end queue. In response to a series of determination steps, the store instruction in the subsequent second entry is collapsed into the store instruction in the first entry. However, Arimilli-611 neither anticipates nor renders obvious a plurality of timers and an associated timer logic, the plurality of timers being each assigned to an entry and utilized for tracking elapsed time since a last gather of a store operation to that entry.

4. U.S. Patent 5,956,503 (Arimilli et al.) discloses a method and system for front-end and back-end gathering of store instructions a within a front-end queue and a back-end queue. In response to a series of determination steps, two store instructions are combined into one bus transfer. However, Arimilli-503 neither anticipates nor renders obvious a plurality of timers and an associated timer logic, the plurality of timers being each assigned to an entry and utilized for tracking elapsed time since a last gather of a store operation to that entry.

5. U.S. Patent 6,101,568 (Richardson et al.) discloses a write-combining bus interface unit having control logic that prevents a deadlock situation. The bus interface unit includes a counter that keeps track of the number of write-combine entries present in the transaction buffer. Whenever the counter reaches a predetermined threshold, all write-combine entries in the transaction buffer are marked for immediate issuance to the system bus. It should be noted that "write-combine" is analogous to "gather." However, Richardson neither anticipates nor renders obvious that when a second processor-issued store operation gathers to the entry before the pre-established threshold for elapsed time is reached: holding off tagging the entry as eligible for dispatch, and restarting the timer to track elapsed time from a completion of the gather of the second processor-issued store operation.

6. U.S. Patent 5,404,550 (Horst et al.) discloses a watchdog timer in each cell to generate a signal indicating that the queue has not changed within a predetermined number of clocks. However, Richardson neither anticipates nor renders obvious that when a second processor-issued store operation gathers to the entry before the pre-established threshold for elapsed time is reached: holding off tagging the entry as eligible for dispatch, and restarting the timer to track elapsed time from a completion of the gather of the second processor-issued store operation.

7. U.S. Patent 6,247,114 (Trull et al.) discloses a microprocessor having an instruction queue capable of out-of-order instruction dispatch and rapidly selecting one or more oldest eligible entries.

8. The prior art of record neither anticipates nor renders obvious the recited combinations of limitations within the instant application.
